

The exercises for the most part were worded pretty good, it was simple to understand and realize what it was that we needed to do and what we needed to do it for. The problem for me is remembering the correct syntax, but once I started to test out the code given in the exercises like the scrollbar or positioning, I started to get more used to it. I am finding these little exercise problems very useful and do help. I see myself practicing more and more with these remembering what to do or not do. Like now i'm more aware of how easy it is to add a scrollbar to something or direct my code at specific divs when I need to do something like change color.